New Roots believes that fresh food is a human right. We work with fresh food insecure communities to create sustainable systems for accessing the farm-fresh, local food we all need to be healthy and happy.

New Roots helps to organize “pop up” Fresh Stop Markets set up local churches and community centers in fresh food insecure neighborhoods. The produce is paid for in advance so that farmers don’t face the same degree of risk as they do faced with coming to a farmers’ market in a limited resource neighborhood (which are scarce). Families pool their money and food stamps on a sliding scale and pay wholesale prices from farmers who sell produce in bulk. Fresh Stops happen four days of the week from May through November and each neighborhood Fresh Stop sets up every other week. Market dates and places are not yet set for 2016 but will be located in Louisville, Lexington and Brandenburg Kentucky and New Albany, Indiana. Please call New Roots for current information.
